

San Francisco Chronicle

Printed on recycled paper | SATURDAY, MAY 10, 2008 | sfgate.com

415

A place to keep your tax rebate

Hollandia International

Dreaming of riches — or just feeling safer — is all in a night's sleep for those who keep their cash in Hollandia's bed safe.

Grandma may have been right. With the downturn in real estate prices and many stocks, keeping your money under your mattress doesn't sound foolish. At least the folks at Hollandia International (www.hollandiainternational.com) don't think so. The manufacturer of luxury beds — they call them “sleep systems” — has come up with an 8-by-10.6-by-4.3-inch safe that fits under the mattress and can hold cash, jewels or your tax rebate check.

The Executive SAFE-T Bed, designed originally for a customer who wanted to keep a handgun handy, has the safe built in, but for $399 it can be added to any Hollandia bed. The SAFE-T Bed, with its flat-panel HDTV in the footrest, will set you back $20,400.

— Lynette Evans