

Friday, 30 Nov, 2007

Featured-Packed \$35,000 Hollandia Platinum Luxe Elite bed

You name a feature and it has all! Ranging from the comfort of gadgetry feel to massage, the bed rightly falls in the category of elite beds eyeing uber-rich customers. Gone are the days when you need to extract time from your tight schedule for prescription, rehabilitation and also hunt for fine mattresses for a blissful sleep. If you have $35,000 attracting dust in your bank account then its right time to make an investment by bringing home the new Hollandia Platinum-Luxe Elite bed.

Weighing 250 pounds, the bed flaunts a built-in iPod docking station into the headboard, a retractable 32-inch HDTV with surround sound along with and a CD player that mounts from the interior of the footboard after the click of a button. Other features include a Sony BRAVIA Theater System with a five DVD/CD changer, a five speaker surround sound system, and a subwoofer underneath the bed. The unique mattress absorbs away all perspiration as it is made up of natural latex refined with a veneer of aloe vera. The movement of the bed is governed by four German-engineered motors and it has an attached 12-program massage system that turns off automatically after an interval of every 30 minutes. Lately, the bed was unveiled in New Jersey and around 10 of them have been sold till date in Moscow.